

JANUARY 2019

New DCTA Fare Structure to Permanently Lower Local Tickets

On Monday, January 14, 2019, we will launch a new, easier local fare structure for a seamless integration within the regional fare system. In addition, our current fare prices featured in our Local Fare Promotion will become permanent to continue to offset the recent increase in regional fares and encourage ridership.

Simplified Local Fare Structure to Make It Easier for Riders

To simplify our fare structure, Connect fares will be removed, and passengers can purchase a Local AM and PM fare for a similar price with the added benefit of access to the A-train as well as Connect. This will reduce the need for transfers and allow riders to have access to more DCTA services at a cheaper price

DCTA's Local Fare Promotion Ticket Prices to Become Permanent

Current fare prices featured in our Local Fare Promotion will become permanent, which will encourage ridership and continue to offset the recent increase in regional fares. Key soon-to-be permanent DCTA local fare highlights include the Local Day Pass priced at $3 (was $6 before Local Fare Promotion), Local 31-Day Pass priced at $48 (was $90 before Local Fare Promotion) and the Local Annual Pass priced at $480 (was $650 before Local Fare Promotion). There will not be any changes to DCTA Access fares.
